EINBLICKE

women | geoscience | careers

Combining career and private life is challenging, specifically in sciences. A high level of flexibility, mobility and commitment is required and often interferes with family formation. Apparently, this tensional field especially influences the career choices of female scientists.

We invite female master students, PhD candidates and postdocs to discuss specifically the role of female scientists, their live planning and career choices with a female geoscientist:

- introduction of the speaker
- colloquial exchange with moderated discussions
- the dialogues will be held over lunch

We look forward to discuss with Prof. Dr. Nathalie Bolfan-Casanova!
